displayed the figure with her desired texture on the monitor by 'blending' it with a new texture. And then, another 'blend' with digital 'filters' to be able to get some effects on the Mac. It's like what the modeling magicians were doing in the 80s... I was interested in doing this once

This is drawn with the same technique used in the postcard that's handed away as bonus give away to the people who reserved the product in beforehand. Handed out to be really cheap and dried out because painted again and again with diluted Chinese ink and scratching out on plain leaving sheet. All the ink and water showed up from the underneath. Handed over was painting with oil. It was fun because drawing this picture was like what had been doing in the past.

This picture was used for the box art, CD jacket, and the title screen in the game. It depicts Mr. Iwao Kusano from R.E.4 in a monochrome style. The image is oriented vertically, with the text "Metal Gear" at the top and "Solid Snake" at the bottom. The character is shown from the waist up, wearing a dark jacket and a beret. The background is a dark, textured surface.

This is just roughs in my sketch book, with just few colors painted with Painter. It turned out to be like this. For a cut of illustration was needed in hurry. Well, If it brings some impact, I think it's OK.

This is the first drawing I made for the magazine ads of 'Metal Gear Solid 2: Sons of Liberty' (it spans across 2 pages with the picture on page 25). This comic-like picture is to appeal that the game was composed with strong scenario as a basic. Words are not related so don't be confused with that. 2 Mr Kojima, the director, asked me to 'draw ads with feminine characters', which I remember had hard time. He even titled it 'Lover's Rock'.

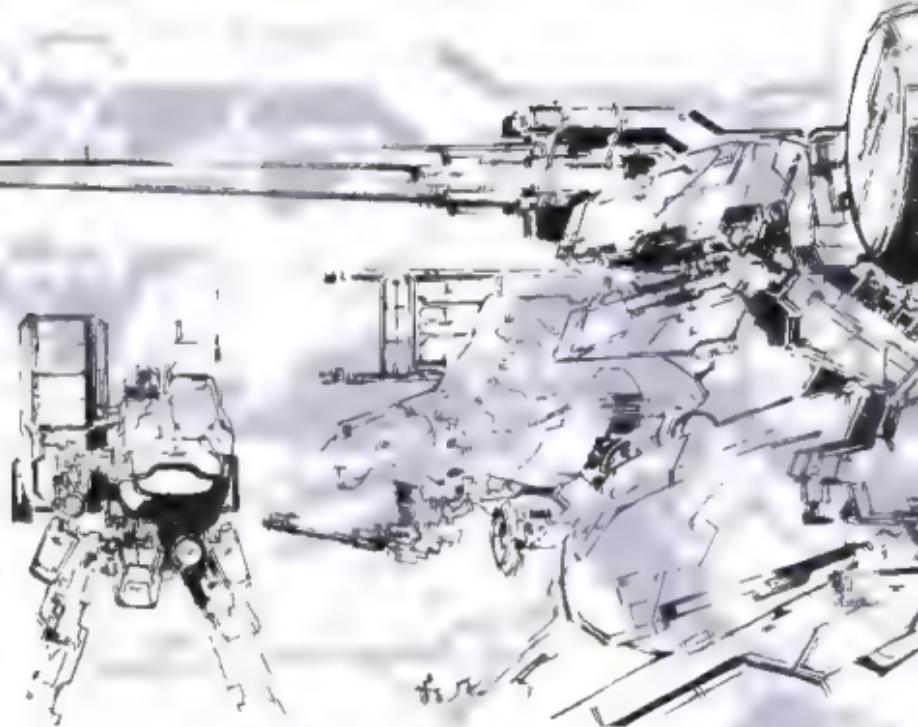

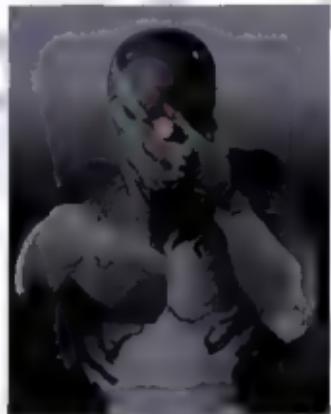

雖然一隊員狀態不如飛行員，但一樣可以完成任務，這全靠Stryke 24小時內在空域巡邏，才一再成功。

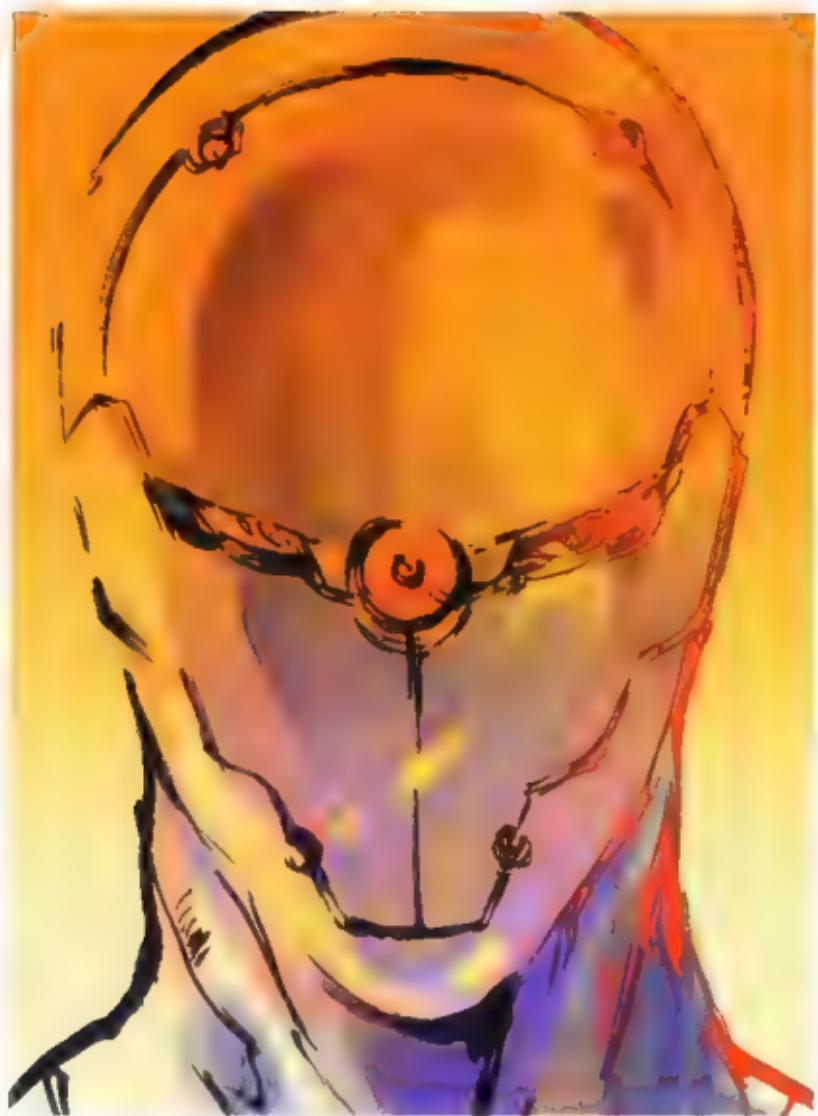

When it is on the hangar, it has 100ft in height. If it bends the nose and stands up 10 feet, it would be 50ft in height. It is adjusted like this in the manner of the way it looks.

Not thought up now, but does REX stand for R-E-X, which means type "T" extra version? Well, never mind.

These are the letters of magazine covers right after "Metal Gear Solid" came out. When I was done with the game itself, I started working on illustrations for the jacket, and if I did, I feel like I am done with this project. Since then, I never got off point. Maybe, one day, I will.

This was the first picture that involved the magazine. When designing the original (main) SOCOM proto-army CG, I used SOCOM proto-in-the-game because it looks good, and that's about the only reason why it's there. It's large in size and square in shape, so it fits well with polygon graphics. Also, it's good because it's 3D camera. The final design on it differs from the one the US SOCOM adopted. I myself think that the proto-type is much cooler in its design.

Well, don't have that specific value of IEDGE and I am wondering if they could help me now.

Pink and purple are some of my favorite colors, which often... use without being aware of the reason. Colors like this are said to bewitch and fascinate people.

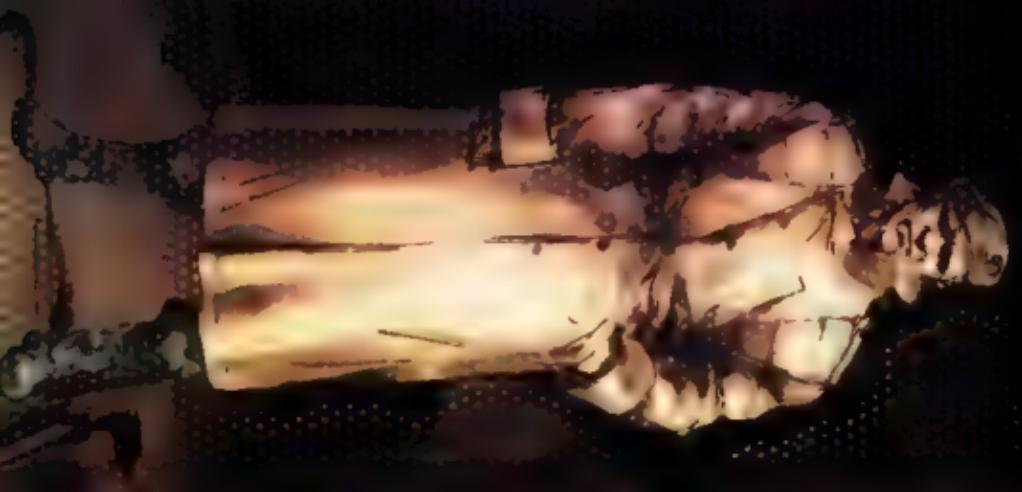

This is an illustration of the stage for CD drama. In the original, I tried to put some effects in it, but that picture is just the way it was made in the first place. We asked Mr. Motosuda Mori for its elements, who Mr. worked with for military advice in the game that we made. He has nice ideas on the way to use gun related materials effectively... sometimes wonder if I could try on drawing source... but just don't have time to do it. Wish somebody draw instead!
